

The atlas moth is so large that it is often mistaken for a bird. Its wingspan is ____ inches.

The giant squid lives deep in the ocean, where its enormous eyes help it to see in the dim light. Its body and tentacles can be up to ____ feet long.

The Alaskan brown bear is the largest meat-eating animal that lives on land. Its average height is ____ feet tall.

The Goliath frog lives in Africa. It's big enough to catch and eat birds and rats. Its length with legs extended is ____ inches.

The Siberian tiger is the biggest of the big cats. Its length from nose to tail is _____ inches.

The giant walking stick is the world's longest insect is _____ inches long.

Humpback whales are about _____ yards long.

The leg span on a Goliath birdeater tarantula is about _____ inches.

Male humpback whales are about _____ meters long.

The giraffe is the tallest living land mammal. Its tail is about _____ centimeters in length.

The female bottlenose dolphin has one calf a year. Its length is about _____ centimeters.

The length of a baby squirrel at birth is about _____ centimeters.

The emperor penguin is the largest of penguins. Their height averages about ____ centimeters.

An African elephant can stand as tall as ____ meters at the shoulder.

An adult boa constrictor will generally grow to be about ____ meters long.

The average Clown fish is about ____ inches in length.